We’re looking for young adults with intellectual or developmental disabilities to participate in our reading study

About the Nationwide Study

The Language Impairment and Down Syndrome research lab at Baylor University would like to learn more about how to best support reading in young adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Everyone who participates will receive some or all of the following: therapy/tutoring, compensation, virtual reading assessments every 3-6 months, and summaries of your reading growth.

For Participants

Learn how to improve your reading skills

Complete study activities via Zoom at a time that is convenient for you

Receive up to $225 for your time over the 9-month study

Eligibility

Age
18-26 years old

Diagnosis
Intellectual and/or developmental disability

Reading
Reads words & sentences independently, but needs help understanding or engaging in daily reading such as text messages

Language
English is primary language and primarily uses oral communication

Take a 2-minute survey HERE to learn more!

Alison Prahl, PhD, CCC-SLP
BaylorLIDSlab@gmail.com
254-710-2572

IRB # 1951478

For more information please visit www.ClinicalTrials.gov